

Personal Reflection

Carlos Yechouh

What do I want to learn or understand better?

This week's Sprint has differed from the previous Sprints in that we've merged significantly smaller tasks more frequently with the master branch. I have made pull requests as soon as I've finished a task. These tasks were much more manageable and were completed within a day. In the upcoming Sprint or near future, I would like to learn more about other development methodologies such as Agile, DevOps, and Kanban, and how these differ from Scrum. I'm sure there are many articles to read online that explain the pros and cons of each method.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

This week, I've assisted a teammate on Slack in explaining how to use previous implementations. I will continue to try to be more present on Slack.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I have divided my task into smaller tasks and merged tasks more frequently. This has contributed to the team's goal of not merging everything at the end of a Sprint.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

In this sprint, I have completed my tasks of improving the user experience which has made the page better looking and more navigable. I have also contributed to writing the team reflection and the design of next Sprint's tasks.
